3rd EMES-Polanyi International Seminar

Welfare societies in transition

Program

#3EMESPolanyi
#empowerse_cost

WELCOME

Welcome to this third international seminar co-organized by organizations and initiatives leading research and practice inspired by the legacy of Karl Polanyi and the EMES Network's multi-dimensional approach to social and solidarity economy. At a time where state and public institutions built in the last century seem to be less able to address the challenges facing societies across the globe, we like to think of these two days as a unique space to exchange original thinking and experiences. The organizers of this seminar would like to thank supporters, members of the scientific committee, keynote speakers, presenters and the rest of delegates for making it possible. Thinking critically about the transitions underway through the lenses of solidarity and reciprocity allows us to cast new light on emerging or existing dynamics and initiatives (new commons, social enterprise, etc.). Ensuring that a community of committed scholars and practitioners have the forum to share this thinking is what empowers us to continue. Enjoy the seminar!

How to get there?

Roskilde University (RUC) is a short train-ride away from Denmark's capital Copenhagen. RUC campus is located near Trekroner Station. From Trekroner Station you can see a dormitory (the multi-colored building) and the campus behind it. The university is within a walking distance of 10 minutes.

A single ticket for the train between Copenhagen Central Station and Trekroner Station costs about DKK 80. The train ride from Copenhagen to Trekroner Station takes approximately 25 minutes - make sure that the train stops at Trekroner Station, not all trains for Roskilde do.

SEMINAR VENUE: Room distribution

Plenary sessions are held in the large auditorium in building 00. The registration desk, the information point and the book signing event will be held in the Foyer Bygning (building 00). Meals will be held at the cafeteria next to Foyer Bygning.

From Market Utopianism to the Reality of Society, From the Collapse of Social Solidarity to the End of Democracy? Why Karl Polanyi is the Necessary Thinker for our (dark) Times.

2008 marked the greatest financial crisis since the 1930s; in 2014 Thomas Piketty's Capital in the Twenty-first Century brought international attention to egregious inequality and social exclusion; in 2018 we face the global trend toward authoritarian rule and the end of democracy. Karl Polanyi provides us a conceptual map to understand this sequence of catastrophes while also illuminating the necessary path to reverse the trend toward barbarism revisited.

PANEL DISCUSSION

Democratically owned enterprises: a road towards international solidarity?

Welcome

Hanne Danielsen, Grennesminde

Panelists

Luciane Lucas dos Santos, Federal University of Bahía, Brazil and Coimbra, Portugal

Mogens Lykketoft, MP Danish Parliament, former President of UNGA

Rory Ridley-Duff, Sheffield Hallam University, UK

Closing remarks by Susanne Westhausen, Kooperationen

This panel session will explore the theory and practice of workplace democracy, with a focus on progressive/radical developments made possible by new technologies (such as platform co-operatives) and commitments to 'inclusion' in UN sustainable development plans. By 2030, the United Nations wants to achieve decent work, inclusive industrialisation, inclusive education, inclusive economic growth, inclusive institutions and inclusive societies. What social and technological developments can facilitate this inclusion, and how can democratically-owned enterprise contribute to international solidarity?

19:30-21:30 Cocktail dinner

Special appearance: Tickle and the Way Ways is your local rough soul band. Minimal and Bluesy-soul, from the depths of our hearts to yours. Featuring Lisa Chodorkoff on vocals and Sune Grip on guitar/vocals.

CLOSING PANEL

Panelists

Swati Banerjee, Tata institute of Social Sciences, India
Jean-Louis Laville, Collège d'études mondiales, France
Marthe Nyssens, President of EMES, Catholique University of Louvain, Belgium

This panel session will focus on the public dimension of solidarity economy and the importance of intermediate public spaces to link mobilization and institutional reframings. It means that the functional approach in social sciences is not appropriate to take into account the tensions between democracy and new capitalism. But the critical theory has also to be changed in order not to only concentrate on domination and alienation but to include a reflexion on absences and emergences in a south epistemology perspective.

Against the neo philanthropic tendency, new frameworks for democratic solidarity have to articulate egalitarian reciprocity and public redistribution.

He has been a visiting scholar at Harvard University (2004), University of California (1998) and University of Mannheim (1992). He was a research consultant to the Danish Ministry of Social Affairs between 1990 and 1998 and former President of the Danish Sociological Association. He is author and co-editor of six books in the areas of social policy, civil society and social enterprise.

Margaret Somers Professor Emerita from the University of Michigan, is a social theorist and comparative historical sociologist specializing in economic, political, and cultural historical sociology. She works under the guidance of Karl Polanyi's intellectual and moral legacy and seeks to express Polanyi's commitments in her writing. Her most renowned works are 'The Power of Market Fundamentalism: Karl Polanyi's Critique', co-authored with Fred Block, which develops a usable Polanyian social theory and offers a repertoire of concepts and theoretical insights that help explain recent major reforms and cutbacks in the welfare state, and 'Genealogies of Citizenship: Markets, Statelessness, and the Right to have Rights', which focuses on how decades of market fundamentalism have transformed increasing numbers of rights-bearing citizens into socially excluded internally stateless persons. She received the Inaugural Lewis A. Coser Award for Innovation and Theoretical Agenda-Setting in Sociology and the 2009 Giovanni Sartori Award in Qualitative Methodology by the American Political Science Association. Currently, she is completing a book on "The Making of Citizenship Rights," a work of comparative historical sociology with a focus on English legal history.

Luciane Lucas dos Santos is a senior researcher at the Centre for Social Studies, University of Coimbra, integrating the Research Group on Democracy, Citizenship and Law (DECIDE). She also integrates, as a permanent member since 2008, the Study Group on Solidarity Economy at CES (ECOSOL/CES). He is a regular guest speaker at several universities (Barcelona, Buenos Aires, Quito, Louvain-la-Neuve, Porto Alegre, Salvador da Bahia...) and he is related to foreign research laboratories such as CRIDIS (Interdisciplinary Research Center, Louvain-la-Neuve, Belgium) and CRISES (Interdisciplinary Research Center in Humanities and Social Sciences, Montpellier, France). Among his latest publications: Les gauches du XXI^e siècle. Un dialogue Nord-Sud, 2016, Le Bord de l'eau; Associations et action publique, 2015, Desclée de Brouwer; Civil Society, the Third Sector and Social Enterprise, 2015, Routledge; L'innovation sociale, 2014, Erès; Human Economy, 2010, Polity.

Marthe Nyssens is full professor at the School of Economics of the Catholic University of Louvain, Belgium, member of 'Centre de Recherches Interdisciplinaires Travail, Etat, Société (CIRTES). She has been acting as a founding member of the EMES European Research Network. She holds a Master in economics (University of California at San Diego), and a Ph.D. in economics (University of Louvain). She is, currently, the EMES president and the chair of the COST action "Empowering the next generation of SE scholars." Her research work has focused on conceptual approaches to the third sector (associations, cooperatives, social enterprises...), both in developed and developing countries, as well as on the links between third sector organizations and public policies. Her research deals with socioeconomic logics of "not-for-profit organizations". She analyses the articulations of these organizations with public policies, the market and the civil society. She investigates the role of these kinds of organizations in comparison with business and public bodies in several fields such as work integration, care or the commons. Her recent work focuses on the emergence of different social enterprise models in an international comparative perspective (ICSEM project).

Rory Ridley-Duff is Professor of Cooperative Social Entrepreneurship within the FairShares Institute at Sheffield Hallam University, recognised for his contribution to developing social enterprise education and scholarship on the FairShares Model. He has a global reputation for pioneering the design and development of solidarity cooperatives. He serves on the editorial boards of: UK Society for Co-operative Studies; Social Enterprise Journal and Journal of Social Entrepreneurship. His research has been published in top academic and field-related journals. Twice returned by Sheffield Hallam University for research excellence (RAE 2008 and REF 2014), his action research programme with Dr Tracey Coule produced a REF Impact Case on 'Democratising Charities, Co-operatives and Social Enterprises'. He chaired his university's Principles of Responsible Management Education (PRME) working group from 2014-2017, then led the development of a new MBA in Co-operative Leadership and Social Entrepreneurship that will be delivered jointly by Sheffield Hallam University, Saint Mary's University and the Co-operative College. He is the academic lead for Sheffield Hallam's Institutional membership for EMES International Research Network and co-chair for the 2019 EMES International Research Conference.

WiFi access

RUC offers free WiFi for guests. You can either use the free WiFi called RUC-Hotspot, which is open for everyone, or Eduroam. For RUC-Hotspot, select this network under "Accessible networks" on your device; then open your browser to get to the login page.

The first time you want to connect to RUC-Hotspot you will have to log in. Your SMS-login is valid for 12 hours and can be used on more devices at a time, if you for instance want to be connected on your phone and computer. As for Eduroam, if you are a guest from another university, which is a part of the Eduroam-project, you can use your login from your home institution to access RUC's wireless network.
